

SOMETIMES HE TELLS US IN ADVANCE

One of my favorite stories

I was on my way home from Thanksgiving in the USA. I stopped at my brother's and told him about the Man On The Bus story.

He then told me about a story he had heard in church the Sunday before. A lady got up and gave her God story. When she was a teenager, she felt God told her that she would adopt a teenage boy. It did not make sense, but she wrote the date God told her in her Bible.

She told her parents, and they agreed it was just not possible at this time in their lives. She later got married, and they could not have children, so they decided to adopt. She told her husband about what God told her years ago. They agreed and adopted a 17-year-old teenage boy.

Now God's story...

She found her old Bible she used years before. The adopted son's birthdate was the same day she wrote that promise in her Bible years ago!

Questions:

- What do you think this story says to this lady?
- What do you think this story said to this 17-year-old boy?
- What does this say about God?
- What does this say about you?
- Is any action necessary on your part?
